Welcome to PCS! We’re thrilled to share space with you, as we gather together to experience the power of community and the profundity and joy of live theater.

We want every person here — audience, volunteers, staff, and artists — to be able to show up and feel fully seen and valued. Enjoy, laugh, cheer, take up space, or just soak it in quietly. There is no one right way to engage with live theater, and we ask that you honor each person’s experience around you.

If a disturbance arises during the performance that you feel requires intervention, rather than taking action by shushing, touching, or scolding other patrons yourself, we ask that you alert our house management staff to the issue in the lobby.

Thank you for creating community here with us today! If you love the show, please tell your friends. If you’d like to share a note about your experience, please email us at feedback@pcs.org.

HONOR NATIVE PEOPLES & LANDS

We at Portland Center Stage would like to offer a land acknowledgment as an expression of gratitude and appreciation to those who have stewarded this land from time immemorial. Land acknowledgments do not exist in a past tense, or historical context: Colonialism is a current, ongoing process, and we seek to build an understanding of our present participation.

The Portland metropolitan area is vast and includes modern-day cities such as Portland, Vancouver, and many others. It covers both sides of the Columbia River and both sides of the Willamette River spanning into surrounding counties such as Clackamas, Columbia, Multnomah, Washington, Yamhill, Clark, and Skamania. In this broad area, there were numerous tribes, people, and villages that honored the abundance that the lands offered. We honor their history and acknowledge the sacrifices they made.

In the metropolitan area, the tribes are: Multnomah [mult-NO-mah], Wasco [WASS-co], Cowlitz [COW-litz], Kathlamet [cath-LAH-mit], Clackamas [CLA-ka-mas], Chinook [cha-NOOK], Tualatin [too-AH-la-tin], Kalapuya [kal-a-POO-yah], Molalla [ma-LA-lah], and many other tribes who made their homes along the Columbia and Willamette Rivers.

We wish to acknowledge the robust present-day federally recognized tribes of this area; the Grande Ronde, Siletz, and Cowlitz. In addition, we would like to acknowledge the Chinook Nation, who has been seeking federal recognition for many years. Today, these vibrant, diverse tribes and communities celebrate their heritage, showing resilience and tenacity.

The Native American community in the Portland metropolitan area is made up of tribal diversity that originates from around the country, representing at least 380 tribes. This community has a vivid history, made up of people whose journeys have brought them to Portland by ways of stolen land, forced displacement, or seeking more opportunities.

At Portland Center Stage, we are committed to supporting Native communities through our conversations and collaborations with Indigenous artists, and with Portland’s Native American Youth and Family Center (NAYA) and the Native Arts and Cultures Foundation. Check out the links below to find out ways that you can support these organizations.

Welcome to the 2022-2023 season! We’ve got an exhilarating lineup of shows ahead, and I’m excited to kick it off with this delicious rock musical, tick, tick ... BOOM!, by Jonathan Larson.

Originally intended as a solo piece that Larson wrote for himself to perform years before he found success with Rent, tick, tick ... BOOM! gets right at the heart of what it means to follow one’s own voice, even when it feels impossible, or perhaps especially when it feels impossible.

The show is a love letter to the theater, with playful musical theater references throughout including a hilarious and moving parody of the title song in Sunday in the Park with George by Stephen Sondheim. Larson takes the sublime act of artistic creation embedded in the song “Sunday” and sets it at the diner where Jon, our lead character, waits tables and brings order and harmony to the absurd chaos of his day job.

The creative design team on our production talked deeply about naming art as work, particularly after such a precarious and painful time of the pandemic shut down. We offer this play then, as a home for all who labor within the joyful, messy, difficult space of creation — as well as to those who have ever been at the vulnerable edge of following their voice to advocate for and bring about change.

Enjoy the show!

Announcing the 2022-2023 Season!

August 20 – September 18, 2022
The hilarious, feel-good origin story of Rent! Jonathan Larson cracks open the ticking-time-bomb world of creating theater to celebrate the power of finding your voice and holding on to a dream.

October 8 – 30, 2022
Drawing on history, this deeply moving story explores the joys and challenges of forgiveness, justice, and family legacy, as a young woman reconciles a childhood she has tried to forget.

November 19 – December 24, 2022
This heartwarming journey of community triumph is reimagined for the stage as a live 1940s radio broadcast complete with a stellar cast, gorgeous music, lavish costumes, and — of course — George Bailey!

November 5 – December 18, 2022
A tour-de-force performance by Kristina Wong, whose sharp humor — and “Auntie Sewing Squad” — explores the early days of the pandemic to offer an inspirational path back to a healing world.

January 14 – February 12, 2023
A bold, feminist take on the iconic crime-fighting duo! This wonderfully farcical comedy packs non-stop laughs and crime-fighting hijinks galore.
February 11 – March 26, 2023
With Bowie blaring from a mixtape, two road trips veer back and forth in time, as an upbeat father and his jaded daughter take a journey that mirrors the father’s life-changing road trip 20 years earlier.

February 25 – March 26, 2023
An Indigenous theater-maker journeys across geographic borders, personal history, and cultural legacies in search of a place to belong.

Portland Center Stage presents the Woolly Mammoth Theater Company production of Where We Belong in association with Folger Shakespeare Library.

April 15 – May 14, 2023
An exhilarating coming-of-age story from the Academy Award-winning writer of Moonlight. A young, gay student leads the choir at his elite school — and learns how to march to his own drum.

June 3 – July 2, 2023
One of Shakespeare’s most popular comedies! This beguiling odyssey in an enchanted forest on a very magical midsummer night reminds us that “the course of true love never did run smooth” — so watch your step!

Stephen Sondheim, one of the theater’s most cherished composers, benefited greatly from the mentorship of another musical theater titan, Oscar Hammerstein II. He met Hammerstein as a child and spent time with the composer as he worked on plays like Carousel and Allegro — watching his mentor create both greatly successful pieces and struggle with pieces that had less acclaim. Sondheim stated that had it not been for Hammerstein's insisting, he would not have written the lyrics for West Side Story or Gypsy. He joked that “had Hammerstein been a geologist” he might have been one too.

The impact of that relationship led Sondheim to commit to a lifetime of mentoring others. When he met Jonathan Larson, he took the young creator under his wing. As a mentor, Sondheim was exacting, candid, and supportive. The two began a robust correspondence, and Larson also shadowed him as Sondheim worked on Into the Woods. Sondheim was responsible for Larson getting his first agent, wrote him several letters of recommendation, and he was the chairman of the committee that offered Larson two grants to develop his musical Superbia. While this show was never fully produced, the development process was immortalized in tick, tick … BOOM!

What did Sondheim think of Larson’s work? He believed in him, but he was honest about the state of his development. In an interview with Evelyn McDonnell for The New York Times, just a few months after Larson’s death, Sondheim spoke about his thoughts on his friend.

“STEPHEN SONDERHEIM: I met [Larson] at a show called Superbia. I don’t remember what brought us together. My guess is he wrote me a letter and asked to meet. I meet a lot of young composers: if they write a letter and the work interests me at all, I will always meet with them. He worked on Superbia for a long time while I knew him, which I think was right after the first draft. I thought the show was interesting and that what he was trying to do was interesting.

EVELYN McDONNELL: What did you think of the compositional work [of Superbia]?

S.S.: I thought some of the songs were good and others not. The opening number had some originality to it, whereas the others didn’t. He was still finding a voice and I think he still is. But he had a voice and that was the important thing.

In the interview, Sondheim spoke of Larson’s work on tick, tick … BOOM!

E.M.: Did you feel the work was progressing, and did you identify with the material?

S.S.: Curiously enough, I didn’t feel it was progressing and we talked about that. I felt there was more originality in Superbia. I worried that he was getting desperate to be accepted and it was starting to show in the work.

Sondheim also spoke of Jonathan’s writing and rewriting style, especially as he worked on Rent.

E.M.: Do you remember a conversation you had about Jonathan being asked to do another rewrite?

S.S.: I said, “You have to learn how to collaborate.” He learned. He called me back a few days later and said, “You were right. I am willing to collaborate.”

E.M.: Did you see the workshop production?

S.S.: Yes.

E.M.: Did you have any idea it would be such a success?

S.S.: No. I didn’t know that Jonathan would die, that made it a myth. The last time I’d spoken to him was in December [Jonathan passed away in January]. He felt pleased about the way he was growing up. He felt that way any author does in the middle of rehearsal. “It’s terrible, it’s wonderful. I’m ashamed of it, isn’t it great?”

This interview reflected a lot of what Sondheim felt about the young creator and a clear image of who Larson was — a zealous, inventive, and hungry composer. There is no doubt that Sondheim saw himself in Larson and the fond feelings endured up until Sondheim’s death in 2021.

For Lin-Manuel Miranda’s film version of tick, tick … BOOM!, Miranda, who was also mentored by Sondheim, screened the film for him. In true Sondheim fashion, he was honored but had notes. He told Miranda:

“One thing: The last voicemail message to Jon, it sounds a little cliché. ‘I have a feeling you’re going to have a very bright future.’ I would never say that. Can I please rewrite what Sondheim says in the voicemail? I’ll record it if you can’t get the actor back.”

And to stay true to himself, and honor Larson, he did just that. The final audio is Sondheim saying: “It’s first-rate work and has a future, and so do you. I’ll call you later with some thoughts, if that’s OK. Meanwhile, be proud.”
THE CAST, BAND & CREATIVE TEAM

Tyler Andrew Jones (He/Him), Michael
Tyler is a multidisciplinary theater artist, writer, and teacher. PCS credits: Hedwig/Yitzhak u/s in Hedwig and the Angry Inch. Lauren Steele (She/Her), Susan
Lauren is a multidisciplinary artist from Portland, Oregon. She graduated with a degree in theater from Southern Methodist University in 2019, with awards for excellence in performance and playwriting. Since then, you may have seen her in Bella: An American Tall Tale at Portland Playhouse, or in the first two installments of the Queen’s Girl in Africa trilogy at Clackamas Repertory Theatre, for which she won a Drammy for Best Solo Performance. Lauren recently released two new singles, titled “Nighttime Friends” and “Give Yourself Grace,” and began working on a full-length album with the local label People Music. You may have recently seen her performing under her musical stage name, Lo Steele, at the Waterfront Blues Festival and the Cathedral Park Jazz Festival. Lauren is thrilled to be closing out the summer with her first production with PCS. Check her out on social media to keep up with her music and upcoming performances. @losteele

Jesse Weil (He/Him), Jon
Jesse is thankful to be making his Portland Center Stage debut in this extraordinary play. Recent credits include the 1st National Tour of Fiddler on the Roof (Motel Kamzoil), The Other Side of Paradise at Ars Nova (F. Scott Fitzgerald), Hair at Pentangle Arts (Claude), and The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel on Amazon (Josiah). Outside of his performance experience, Jesse is a passionate writer and teacher. He’s forever grateful for his exceptional family, his friends, and his two geriatric cats, as well as the many inspiring artists that this piece connects him to — especially his new tick, tick ... BOOM! family and Jonathan Larson, who imbues this story with so much wisdom and humanity. Say hi!

In 1989, he was granted the Stephen Sondheim Award from the American Music Theatre Festival, where he contributed to the musical Sitting on the Edge of the Future. In 1988, he won the Richard Rodgers Development Grant for his rock musical Superbia, which was staged at Playwrights Horizon. He composed the score for the musical J.P. Morgan Saves the Nation, which was presented by En Garde Arts in 1995. Mr. Larson performed his rock monologue tick, tick ... BOOM! at Second Stage Theatre, The Village Gate, and New York Theatre Workshop. In addition to scoring and songwriting for Sesame Street, he created music for a number of children’s book cassettes, including Steven Spielberg’s An American Tail and Land Before Time. Other film scores include work for Rolling Stone’s magazine publisher Jann Wenner. He conceived, directed, and wrote four original songs for “Away We Go!,” a musical video for children. Rent, his rock opera based on La Bohème, had its world premiere on February 13, 1996, at New York Theatre Workshop. Jonathan died unexpectedly of an aortic aneurysm on January 25, 1996, 10 days before his 36th birthday. His music (including songs cut from his shows) is archived in the Library of Congress.

We approach every project with a diversity of thought and burning curiosity, and above all, we believe in the value of the whole being greater than the sum of its individual parts. Recent credits: La Traviata (VA, Wolf Trap Opera); While You Were Partying (NYC, Soho Rep); The Green Veil, a TV mini-series starring John Leguizamo; Nations Lending, a national commercial starring Dennis Rodman. designbydots.com, esoele.com, andrewmoerdyk.com, kimienishikawa-design.com.

Lucy Wells (She/Her),
Costume Designer
Lucy is a costume designer and the costume shop supervisor at Portland Center Stage. She is originally from Mississippi and holds a B.F.A. from the University of Southern Mississippi. Lucy spent the early years of her career working freelance as a costume designer, costume stitcher, and wardrobe supervisor at such theaters as Oregon Shakespeare Festival, Idaho Shakespeare Festival, Berkshire Theatre Group in Massachusetts, TheatreWorks Silicon Valley, The Rev Theatre in upstate New York, and Shakespeare & Company in Massachusetts. This is Lucy’s second season as a shop manager at PCS and her first costume design for PCS. She is always thankful and excited for the collaborative process of bringing a show to life. Lucy is a member of IATSE local 154.

Masha Tsimring (She/Her),
Lighting Designer
Masha is an NYC-based designer for live performance. Recently: Der Freischütz (Wolf Trap Opera); Straight White Men (Westport); Private (Mosaic); Cunning Little Vixen and Salome (Bard); Puppet Lab (St. Ann’s Warehouse); To the Yellow House (La Jolla Playhouse). Internationally, her work has taken her to Russia, Chile, China, Germany, Ecuador, the Netherlands, Bolivia, and one very big boat. Homes for New York projects include Playwrights Horizons, Soho Rep, The Kitchen, Atlantic Theatre Co., Clubbed Thumb, PlayCo, Invisible Dog, Page73, and Bushwick Starr. In addition to design, Masha’s interests include progress towards pay equity and a more ethical model of making in the American theater. Masha received her M.F.A. from the Yale School of Art.

Sammi Kelly (She/Her),
Sound Designer
Sammi is making her sound designing debut in Portland for tick, tick ... BOOM! Sammi is going on her second full season at PCS as the associate sound and video supervisor. She was last seen at PCS as the A1 for Rent. Sammi has a B.A. in theater with music business and business administration focuses at the State University of New York at Potsdam. Her design credits include: How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, Urinetown, The Secret Garden, The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee, Wiley and the Hairy Man, Venus by Suzan Lori-Parks, Much Ado About Nothing, Blood Wedding, and many more. Sammi would like to thank her family for their endless support of her love of theater!

David Saffert, Rehearsal Accompanist
David has played piano locally for the Oregon Symphony, Portland Opera, Oregon Ballet Theatre, Resonance Ensemble, Anonymous Theatre, and has been featured on All Classical Portland’s radio show “Thursdays at Three.” Past piano credits also involve work in Minnesota with the Guthrie Theater and in Michigan at the Interlochen Arts Camp. As an actor, David has been nominated for a PAMTA and Broadway World’s “Performer of the Decade” for his performance in Murder for Two at Broadway Rose Theatre.

Kamilah Bush (She/Her), Dramaturg
Kamilah is a playwright, dramaturg, and educator originally from North Carolina. She holds a B.F.A. in theater education from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and was an NC teaching fellow. Kamilah has spent several seasons at celebrated regional theaters across the country, including Triad Stage in Greensboro, NC, Asolo Repertory Theater in Sarasota, FL, and Two River Theater in Red Bank, NJ. Her play Nick & The Prizefighter was a semifinalist in the 2021 Bay Area Playwright’s Festival and won the 2021 Urbanite Theater Modern Works Festival.

Janine Vanderhoff (She/Her),
Stage Manager
Janine is thrilled to return for her seventh season at Portland Center Stage. She has been a stage manager and production manager in theater for more than 20 years on Broadway, Off-Broadway, regionally, and on tour. She’s had many favorite productions in that time, but some of her favorites include Rent, Frida ... A Self Portrait, Hedwig and the Angry Inch, Macbeth, A Christmas Memory/Winter Song, Wild & Reckless (all at Portland Center Stage); Sweeney Todd (Portland Opera); The Lion King (Broadway); The Graduate (starring Morgan Fairchild); Cats, The Vagina Monologues, Jekyll & Hyde, Show Boat (all on tour); The Daily Show with Jon Stewart “Democalypse 2012 Republican National Convention.” Proud NYU graduate and AEA member.

Dana Petersen (She/Her),
Assistant Stage Manager
Dana is so excited to be back at Portland Center Stage. Her previous credits at PCS are Rent, In the Heights, Redwood, Hedwig and the Angry Inch, The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time (production assistant), Hedwig and the Angry Inch (assistant stage manager), and The Bells That Still Can Ring (stage manager). Dana graduated from The Ohio State University with a B.A. in theater. While at OSU, Dana was the stage manager on 7 Ways to Say I Love You, Beyond All Recognition, Execution of Justice, Michael Von Siebenburg Melts Through the Floorboards, and The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time. Dana sends all of her love to her family, both blood and found.

Andrea Zee (She/Her),

MEET THE ARTISTIC & INTERIM MANAGING DIRECTORS

MARISSA WOLF (She/Her), ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Marissa is currently in her fifth year as artistic director of Portland Center Stage, where she launched her first programmed season in 2019-2020 with two world premiere productions and work by notable artists including Lauren Yee, Lee Sunday Evans, and May Adrales. Marissa previously served as associate artistic director/new works director at KCRep and artistic director of Crowded Fire Theater in San Francisco. Select directing credits include Fire in Dreamland by Rinne Groff (The Public Theater; world premiere at KCRep); Man in Love by Christina Anderson and The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time by Simon Stephens (Portland Center Stage and KCRep); 77% by Rinne Groff (San Francisco Playhouse); Precious Little by Madeleine George ( Shotgun Players); The Lily’s Revenge (Act II) by Taylor Mac (Magic Theatre); and The Late Wedding by Christopher Chen (Crowded Fire Theater). She’s been nominated for Best Director by BroadwayWorld San Francisco and the Bay Area Critics Circle. Marissa held the Bret C. Harte Directing Fellowship at Berkeley Repertory Theatre and has a degree in drama from Vassar College, with additional training from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

LIAM KAAS-LENTZ (He/Him), INTERIM MANAGING DIRECTOR

Liam is originally from Bellingham, Washington, and has worked in theater management in Portland for more than 20 years. Most recently, he was the general manager for Portland Center Stage, having started as a production assistant, followed by stage manager, production stage manager, production manager, and director of production. He’s also served as production manager for Portland Playhouse, Sojourn Theatre, Hand2Mouth Theatre, and Risk/Reward. He has stage managed for Artists Repertory Theatre, Portland Playhouse, Hand2Mouth Theatre, CoHo Productions, Teatro Milagro, Pixie Dust Productions, the Geva Theatre Center, PCPA, National Public Radio, and The Kitchen in New York City. Liam received his B.F.A. from Southern Oregon University, his M.Ed. from Portland State University, and he has taught theatrical management at Northwestern University, Georgetown University, Vanderbilt University, Whitman College, and PSU. He lives with his wife and cat in southeast Portland.

PORTLAND CENTER STAGE AT THE ARMORY

Portland Center Stage is the largest theater company in Portland, and among the top 20 regional theaters in the country. Established in 1988 as a branch of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, the company became independent in 1994. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Marissa Wolf and Interim Managing Director Liam Kaas-Lentz, the company produces a mix of classic, contemporary, and world premiere productions, along with a variety of high-quality education and community programs. As part of its dedication to new play development, the company has produced 28 world premieres, many of which were developed at its annual JAW New Play Festival. Portland Center Stage’s home is The Armory, an historic building originally constructed in 1891. After a major renovation, The Armory opened in 2006 as the first building on the National Register of Historic Places, as well as the first performing arts venue in the country and the first building in Portland, to achieve a LEED Platinum rating.

Thank you for joining us at Portland Center Stage. We want to hear your thoughts! Use #PCSPlay across all social platforms to connect with us further! You can also reach us at feedback@pcs.org.
