

“I regard the theater as the greatest of all art forms, the most immediate way in which a human being can share with another a sense of what it is to be a human being.” – Oscar Wilde

Our mission is to inspire our community by bringing stories to life in unexpected ways. However, ticket sales only cover half the cost to run our theater. It is donors like you that allow us to stage innovative productions, bring the nation’s best emerging playwrights to The Armory for the annual JAW Festival, and enhance our educational and community programs. Individuals who believe in the value of theater in our lives make it all happen.
